

Homework week commencing 6th November 2023

I hope your 500 Words writing has gone well. I know a few of you have submitted your story onto the BBC website, so well done! Please continue to email me your certificates so that I can include them in our celebration assembly on Friday.

This week, we are continuing with Maths, and I have set you written addition questions for you to work through. Make sure you take your time and calculate your answers carefully. Some paper and a pencil to hand would be useful so that you can use the methods taught in class to work out your answers. You might need to exchange on some of the questions.

All the best!

Any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me via email.

Kind regards,

Mrs Padam
