Poem example

Remember your poem is your creation. Decide how many verses you want to add. Will it include a rhyming string, or will you write freely? Remember to include at least two similes and metaphors.

The Wardrobe

The wardrobe stood alone in the room,
An isolated figure.
Like a moth to a flame, Lucy was drawn to explore its enticing interior.

She stroked and sniffed the furry garments
then ventured deep within,
As curious as a cat,
her blue eyes opened wide.

Although she could not see around,
her senses tingled and ignited!
Touch and smell, sight and sound,
A strange, yet delightful, sensation!

Fur as soft as a rabbit's,
Velvety darkness, thick and safe,
A crunch! A scratch! And in the distance, the amber glow of a street lamp.

Snow fell all around her,
Like tiny flakes of lace.
The wardrobe had been a portal
and she wondered, What is this land?
